Instead, the FAS will match each of the 22 players on both sides who play in "the highest division" in Singapore during the six-month period starting June 2018. "[The FAS] will rely on the results of the respective domestic leagues to determine which players and clubs are playing in the highest division," said an FAS statement. "The FAS has agreed with the Football Association of Malaysia (FAM) and Football Association of Singapore (FAS) to change the rules governing interchange in the Hyundai A-League / S-League." A joint FAS-FAM statement last Friday (Dec 7) announced that a competition-wide new rule would mean that at least one defender who is eligible for the S-League will play two games in the A-League. S-League clubs will get a domestic wildcard player to help them prepare for the competition in January, but clubs that play in the S-League will not be able to use this wildcard player in the A-League. The FAS statement also added that if a player is on the bench during the A-League but starts at the local top level, he will still count as an interchange player for the S-League player. ♦
